Share

Tell someone at home about the picture you drew about injustice. Share any thoughts or feelings you have about injustice and ask any questions you have about it. Injustice can be a hard topic to talk about because we often have strong feelings about it, and sometimes it feels like there are no good or simple answers. But talking about it is a good way to start.

Create

As part of our starter activities we have been focusing on superheroes and the way they fight injustice. Create your own superhero quiz to try out on the people at home.
